Guadalupe Mountains National Park is located in west Texas, near the border with New Mexico. The park has a rich cultural and historical background, with evidence of human habitation dating back thousands of years. Native American tribes, including the Mescalero Apache, once lived in the region. The park is known for its rugged and diverse landscapes, including canyons, mountains, and desert terrain.

Drive to Fort Davis

Following breakfast, you'll head out to the historic town of Fort Davis. Established in 1854, Fort Davis is the highest elevation town in the state of Texas at 5,050 feet above sea level. Fort Davis is not only a historic site but also home to a former Cavalry post where the African American soldiers, famously known as "Buffalo Soldiers," were stationed in the latter half of the 1800s. DAY 4
Sunday
11/16/25

Big Bend National Park, Terlingua

Terlingua is a small ghost town located near Big Bend National Park in southwestern Texas. Terlingua was originally a mining town, known for its quicksilver (mercury) mining operations in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The Chisos Mining Company operated here, and the town boomed during the height of the mining activity. When visiting Terlingua, travelers can experience a blend of history, art, and the laid-back atmosphere of a desert town.

Fossil Discovery Drive south as you make your way toward Big Bend. About 2 hours into your journey, you will stop at the Fossil Discovery Exhibit where you will see the astonishing Quetzalcoatlus northropi, the world's largest known flying creature which had a 36-foot wingspan and weighed over 500 pounds!

Visit Terlingua After a picnic lunch, drive another hour to Terlingua, a former mercury mining town that became a ghost town when the price of mercury collapsed in 1947 and the mines closed. In the 1960s, it experienced a renaissance when artists, musicians, naturalists, and river guides moved there, and tourism reshaped the local economy.

Scenic Hike Enjoy a scenic hike near your hotel just steps from the Rio Grande. Later, enjoy dinner as a group near the hotel.

Big Bend National Park, Chisos Mountains and Santa Elena

Santa Elena Canyon is one of the most iconic and breathtaking features in Big Bend National Park, located in southwestern Texas along the border with Mexico. Santa Elena Canyon is formed by the Rio Grande, which serves as the natural border between the United States and Mexico in this region. Visiting Santa Elena Canyon is a memorable experience, and it showcases the diverse and spectacular landscapes found within Big Bend National Park.

Hike in the Chisos Mountain

Today is all about Big Bend! Begin the day with a one-hour drive to the main visitor center to learn more about Big Bend's natural and human history. After a short 20-min drive, tackle an iconic trail in the Chisos Mountains for a hike to a scenic overlook.

Hike in Santa Elena Canyon

Following a packed lunch, embark on a 70-minute drive to Santa Elena Canyon, a strikingly beautiful destination nestled within Big Bend National Park, boasting canyon walls that soar up to 1,500 feet. Enjoy a short hike in this breathtaking locale before returning to the hotel.

Dinner

Tonight, drive 15 minutes to dine at the Starlight Theater Restaurant, an adobe structure built in the 1930s as the Chisos Movie Theater. When the mines went bust, the roof materials were sold for scrap, leaving only the adobe walls intact. The roofless adobe building became a gathering place for open-air parties, concerts, and plays, thus the Starlight Theater was named. In 1990, the building was restored - including a new roof - but the adobe walls still remain.

Adventure Travel Today

We define “adventure travel” as travel in which one actively participates, as opposed to a “tour,” in which one is more or less a passive observer. AdventureWomen designs and organizes trips all over the world for women who want an active, out of the ordinary experience, and meet new friends. Most of all, we want our trips to be fun! In this spirit, the successful adventure traveler should be a good-natured realist and have a sense of humor! Adventure trips, by nature, require that participants be self-sufficient, flexible, and able to accept situations as they exist, and not just as they would have preferred or expected them to exist. The constraints of scheduled group traveling also necessitate that each of us be understanding of and sensitive to others. Being on time is important, and contributes to the congeniality, success and well-being of both individuals and the group!
