Canyoneering and Ziplining

Canyoneering and ziplining are two popular adventure activities in Moab. They offer very different experiences. Canyoneering involves navigating through narrow canyons and learning various skills while ziplining is a thrilling ride that lasts for seconds as you zip through the air over sandstone cliffs and canyons.

Canyoneering or Ziplining

Prepare for a thrilling lineup of adventures! The group will split into two, with one half embarking on an exhilarating canyoneering excursion, while the other half takes on the adrenaline-pumping challenge of ziplining.

For those who start the day with the canyoneering adventure, prepare for a 2.5 miles scenic hike through sandstone terrain, leading you to the majestic Longbow Arch. This daring journey involves steep climbs and four rappels ranging from 15 to 80 feet, offering an unforgettable descent into the breathtaking canyons below. Along the way, you'll encounter ancient petroglyphs left by the Ancestral Puebloans and even have the chance to witness fossilized dinosaur tracks.

Meanwhile, the zipline adventure kicks off with an exciting 4x4 ride to the cliff tops overlooking Moab. From that point, glide over the landscape to reach a 100-foot suspension bridge spanning the gap between two sandstone fins. As you zip across six exhilarating ziplines over 0.5 miles, you'll be treated to sweeping views of the iconic La Sal Mountains and the meandering Colorado River.

Adventure Travel Today

We define "adventure travel" as travel in which one actively participates, as opposed to a "tour," in which one is more or less a passive observer. AdventureWomen designs and organizes trips all over the world for women who want an active, out of the ordinary experience, and meet new friends. Most of all, we want our trips to be fun! In this spirit, the successful adventure traveler should be a good-natured realist and have a sense of humor! Adventure trips, by nature, require that participants be self-sufficient, flexible, and able to accept situations as they exist, and not just as they would have preferred or expected them to exist. The constraints of scheduled group traveling also necessitate that each of us be understanding of and sensitive to others. Being on time is important, and contributes to the congeniality, success and well-being of both individuals and the group!
