DAY 3
Monday
2/24/25

Todos Santos to Isla Espiritu Santo

Espiritu Santo National Park in the Sea of Cortez is part of a UNESCO World Heritage Site and is one of the best marine life viewing destinations in the world. Whales, dolphins, sea turtles, manta rays, and plenty of beautiful tropical fish call the surrounding waters home, while a terrific range of bird species including Blue-footed Boobies, Reddish Egrets, Great Blue Herons, and Yellow-footed Gulls frequent the island's skies and shores. The island itself is stunning, with magnificent towering cliffs, spectacular sandy bays, amazing lava rock formations, and rock art left by the now-extinct Guaycura and Pericu Indians.

Travel to Isla Espiritu Santo

After breakfast, drive to La Paz, stopping to try on your wet suit and get your snorkeling gear. From La Paz, you will get on a boat for your 60-minute ride to your exclusive camp on the beach. Wear your bathing suit this morning, just in case there is a chance to swim along the way!

Afternoon Activities

Spend your afternoon kayaking or stand up paddle boarding exploring hidden lagoons and desert beaches.

Happy Hour

Enjoy the sunset with your group as you sip a cold drink and sit with your toes in the sand.

DAY 4
Tuesday

Isla Espiritu Santo

Jacques Cousteau once called the Sea of Cortez “the aquarium of the world” and “the Galapagos of North America.” About 39 percent of the world’s marine mammal species and 70 percent of the world’s marine cetacean species live or migrate through here, making this region one of the planet’s most bio-diverse ecosystems.

Swimming with Sea Lions

Swimming with sea lions is magical, with unforgettable nose-to-nose encounters. Grab some provided snorkeling gear and jump in with them.

Dinner

Enjoy a dinner from the camp kitchen and a relaxing night on the beach. Share stories about your experiences with the curious sea lions earlier today.

DAY 5
Wednesday
2/26/25

Isla to Magdalena Bay

Magdalena Bay is the largest wetlands ecosystem on the west coast of Baja and one of the most important in North America. It has mangrove forests, barrier beaches, and sand dune islands, all of which contribute to the incredible scenery and biological diversity of the area. The Bay is also the prime calving ground for the gray whale, and between January and March it is possible to see – and often touch – a large number of whales, including mothers and calves.

Depart Isla Espiritu Santo

Depart your beautiful camp by boat for La Paz. Once you arrive in La Paz, drive about five hours to Magdalena Bay, enjoying a picnic lunch along the way. This is a long drive, but Magdalena Bay is the premiere place to see the gray whales.

Whale Watching

Enjoy a couple of hours of whale watching on your way to the beach that you'll call home for the next few nights.

This camp will have tents, but the tents are a bit more rustic, with cots and sleeping bags, since the location is even more remote than your last camp!

Evening at Camp

Once you settle in at camp, you can relax with your group on the beach, and if you're lucky, observe whales from the shore.

DAY 6
Thursday
2/27/25

Magdalena Bay

The gray whale is the largest animal to have ever exhibited friendliness towards humans. There is little to compare with the experience of closely observing a mother and her calf or seeing juveniles leaping exuberantly out of the water. They frolic, breach, spyhop, and lobtail, while spouting heart-shaped clouds of mist into the cool midday air. The young calves are especially curious, following and on occasion even nuzzling up to the whale-watching skiffs. Sometimes they catch a ride on their mother's backs! If you're a wildlife lover, this is an unforgettable experience.

Morning Whale Watching

Head out onto the water for a morning of interacting with whales. Highly experienced staff will ferry you through the waters of Magdalena Bay to whale watch from motorized skiffs, perfect conveyances from which to have a "whale's eye view" of the great grays!

Nature Walk

Enjoy lunch and a nature walk after your morning on the water.

Afternoon Whale Watching

Head out for another afternoon of whale watching. It is impossible to predict anything with wildlife, but in the past, AdventureWomen guests have seen mother whales bringing their babies up to the boat to say hello, males sidling up and spouting water on the boat, and gray whales bringing their heads out of the water to look women in the eye.

DAY 7
Friday
2/28/25

Magdalena Bay to Todos Santos

One of the most striking things about the Baja peninsula is the incredible juxtaposition of desert and sea, happy home to both cactus and seagull. Artists and photographers are lured here by the quality of light, marine sports enthusiasts come to enjoy the challenging fun above and below the surface of the inviting big blue sea, and the local residents enjoy a stress-free lifestyle, welcoming visitors who seek a multi-layered getaway.

More Whale Watching

Enjoy another couple of hours of whale watching, spending a little bit more time with these majestic, gentle creatures.

Drive to Todos Santos

Drive about five hours back from Magdalena Bay to Todos Santos. Enjoy lunch at a local restaurant along the way.

Farewell Dinner

Enjoy your farewell dinner. Reminisce over all of the memories you have made and celebrate the end of an incredible trip with your new AdventureWomen friends!

Adventure Travel Today

We define “adventure travel” as travel in which one actively participates, as opposed to a “tour,” in which one is more or less a passive observer. AdventureWomen designs and organizes trips all over the world for women who want an active, out of the ordinary experience, and meet new friends. Most of all, we want our trips to be fun! In this spirit, the successful adventure traveler should be a good-natured realist and have a sense of humor! Adventure trips, by nature, require that participants be self-sufficient, flexible, and able to accept situations as they exist, and not just as they would have preferred or expected them to exist. The constraints of scheduled group traveling also necessitate that each of us be understanding of and sensitive to others. Being on time is important, and contributes to the congeniality, success and well-being of both individuals and the group!
